TERRIBLE ACCIDENT AT DAWSON.

A telephone message received this afternoon from Dawson stated that about 2 o'clock several ladies were walking on a railroad trestle near there when a freight train struck them, and killed two and badly, if not fatally injured three others.

Their names were not known, but they were reported to be from McCracken county, near Paducah.

A later telephone message stated that the ladies killed were: Miss, or Mrs. Johnnie Smith, Paducah; Miss Josie Stephenson, Hickory Grove, and those badly if not fatally injured: Miss Annie Nichols, Hawes, Ky.; Miss Edith Stephenson, Hickory Grove, and Miss Beulah Flint, Paducah.

Those who were injured jumped, while the other two were struck by the train.

HAD STAMPS TO BURN

Government Officials are After Erstwhile Brookport Man.

He Sold Ninety Cents Worth for a Dollar and Paid all Bills in Postage Stamps.

MAY BE CHICAGO ROBBER

It develops that the man who went by the name of Charles Martin, and while in business at Brookport, skipped out a short time ago, leaving numerous creditors in the lurch, is a badly wanted man. His right name is said to be Henry Howard, and his home Pine Bluff, Ark. During the several months he was in business at Brookport, he was suspected of making moonshine whiskey, but no evidence could ever be secured against him.

He also dealt extensively in government stamps, selling them in unlimited quantities, ninety cents worth for a dollar. He also bought buggies, wagons and other things and paid for them in stamps. It is thought possible that the stamps may have been a portion of those stolen at Chicago. It is practically certain that they were not obtained honestly, on account of the large quantities he had.

Martin's stock of goods was attached by creditors soon after his disappearance, and when Sheriff Evers, of Metropolis, started to sell it Monday, other creditors attempted to stop him, but he proceeded, and the proceeds will be turned into court and the disposition of them be decided on Thursday and Saturday.

Government officers are now looking for Martin, on account of the stamp transactions. It is believed that the fugitive is some big thief badly wanted in a number of places.

A BUILDING BOOM

Paducah Capital and Outside Capital to Accomplish Wonders.

The New Fraternity Building a Certainty—An Apartment House Is Talked of—Other Buildings.

THE CITY GROWING RAPIDLY

A meeting of Plain City Lodge, Masons, was held last night, at which it was reported that the money for the second mortgage bonds of the big Masonic-Odd Fellows building to be erected on Broadway near Fifth adjoining the government building, has been secured by the Masons, virtually insuring the erection at an early date of the building.

The executive board had decided to put up a $45,000 building, and to do this it was necessary to raise $30,000 on first mortgage bonds, and $15,000 on second mortgage bonds.

The Masons were to raise $7,500 of the second mortgage money, and the Odd Fellows $7,500. The Odd Fellows claim to have had their money ready all the time, and now the Masons have theirs. The first mortgage money, $30,000, has been practically assured for some months, and the committee is confident that it can get $35,000 instead of $30,000, making the building cost $50,000 instead of $45,000.

When the Odd Fellows officially notify the executive board of the two lodges, of which Mr. F. Kamleiter is chairman, a meeting will be called, and steps at once taken to begin work. It is not certain when ground will be broken, but perhaps within thirty days.

"Of course you understand," said a member of the board today, "there is always more or less delay in such things, even when the money is ready, as in this case, but we expect to push things and start work as soon as possible. You can look at the public library as an example. The money has been ready for several months, yet work has not yet begun on account of those unexpected details which so often come up to delay operations." The building will be one of the finest in the city, and will be a credit to the enterprising orders behind it.

The amount of new buildings that are assured Paducah show that nothing can stop our progress. Take the vicinity around Fifth and Broadway, for instance. Among the improvements there are the new opera house, already completed. The addition to the government building, to cost at least $75,000, a $60,000 annex to the Palmer house which is certain to be built some time soon, the Elks building across the street, north of the government building, to cost $50,000 or more, the fraternity building on the west side of the government building, at $50,000, and the new laundry building at Fifth and Jefferson, the new telephone exchange on South Fifth near Broadway—all in one locality.

Further down we find Fourth street rapidly building up, with the new Rhodes-Burford building nearly completed and the City National bank building promised early next year, new fronts going up all along Broadway, the handsome Harbour building on Third, the J. R. Smith building to be erected at Third and Broadway, the Smith buildings at Second and Broadway, and many others contemplated.

In addition we are getting new factories every month, and some of the old ones are doubling their capacity and forces. One man just back from an extensive trip said today: "I have seen a number of good cities, but none of them can touch Paducah. We have everything here, if we can just get the push behind it. There is plenty of money. One man in another city I know invests at least $20,000 here every year, which is new money; the money from the Paducah Coal and Mining deal is new money, and money brought here for these new factories is new money, the government addition money will be new money, and the public library money is new money. All of this after being spent, will seek investment here, and with the proper display of progress, it would go immediately to build up the city."

CONVICT TRACY IS DEAD

The Noted Desperado, Surrounded by a Posse, Killed Himself.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 6.—Harry Tracy, the noted outlaw and escaped convict, who for weeks has been terrorizing the people of this state and Oregon, is dead. After a chase that was unprecedented for its bloody features and the elusive ability of the outlaw, he shot himself in a wheat field about 4:30 o'clock this morning near Fallows.

He was surrounded by a posse. He was first discovered in a swamp near the Eddy farm eleven miles southeast of Creston, Wash.

For several hours a long range rifle duel was maintained by Tracy and the sheriff posse of eight, headed by Sheriff Gardner.

While it was in progress, the news that Tracy was surrounded was brought to Creston by Jack McGinnis, a liveryman of the sheriff's posse, who then went to Davenport for reinforcements. Twenty-five armed men left Davenport this morning in wagons for the scene of the battle, and Sheriff Doust, of Spokane, accompanied them to the scene. After further flight, Tracy, finding that further flight or fight was useless, killed himself. There was a reward of $2,000 for him, dead or alive. Since he escaped he had killed about ten people in his efforts to evade capture.

be asked within the next ten days to examine specifications and submit new bids, and it is hoped to send them off sometime during the month, and have the government award contracts and begin work at once.

Messrs. Joseph L. Friedman, of the city, and Max B. Nahm, of Bowling Green, have purchased from Messrs. Ed Gilson and George Hughes the old Weil property, on Broadway near Seventh, between the Cobb residence and the old Methodist church. There is sixty-five feet front, and the price paid was $7,000. It has not yet been decided what will be built on the property, but a valuable improvement will be placed there in the near future. It is one of the most valuable pieces of real estate in the city and will be embellished with an improvement worthy of it. It is possible a large, modern five story apartment house will be erected on it.

GOOD RAINFALL

OVER HALF AN INCH FELL LAST NIGHT IN A SHORT TIME.

The rainfall yesterday afternoon and last night in Paducah was .62 of an inch, and was welcome everywhere after the sultry days preceding. Today has been quite pleasant. The hot wave seems to be broken temporarily, at least. Yesterday afternoon 98 was the highest temperature registered.

CROWD TOO LARGE

Thirteen Coaches Insufficient for the Illinois Central Picnic Crowd.

Two Extra Coaches and Several Cabcoaches Had to Be Added to Accommodate Them.

SEVERAL THOUSAND ATTEND

The Illinois Central picnic excursion train did not get away on the schedule time, 7 o'clock sharp, this morning, but left about 8 o'clock running as the second section of train No. 122, the Fulton and Louisville accommodation train. The crowd was so large that the thirteen coaches could not accommodate them and four cabcoaches and two extra coaches had to be added. The coaches were well filled at Eleventh and Broadway and at the passenger depot the passengers were so thick that it was hardly possible to crowd them all in the cabcoaches.

The committee sold a number of tickets to outsiders and there were nearly as many non-employees and families as employees.

The coaches were nicely decorated and two bands were carried along, one for the colored people who were taken to Princeton on the passenger train No. 122 in three coaches, and the other for the white people. It was impossible to estimate the number of people who left, as many went on the accommodation train and also on the noon fast passenger. The coaches were filled even in the aisles and over 2,000 left Paducah, not counting the colored people.

SPECIAL RATES.

RETAIL MERCHANTS TO HOLD IMPORTANT MEETING TONIGHT.

The Retail Merchants' Association will hold its regular monthly meeting tonight at L. B. Ogilvie and Co.'s store and all members are requested to be in attendance.

There will be several reports read and much business of importance transacted. One report that will be of interest is the report of the committee appointed to confer with the railroads in regard to making a special rate to shoppers within a radius of sixty or seventy-five miles. Rates are made to St. Louis, Louisville, Chicago and many other cities, and many residents take advantage of these to do their shopping and buying in the cities and in order to get some of this money back, the merchants have asked that a special rate be fixed by the railroads to induce the residents of nearby cities to come here and do their shopping during that period. The rates have been asked for only during the shopping season.

ELEVATOR ACCIDENT

RESULTED IN A DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST A MERCHANT.

Attorney W. V. Eaton this afternoon filed a suit in circuit court for Miss Donie L. Carney against Mr. Ell Guthrie, the dry goods merchant, for $5,000 damages, alleged to have been sustained in an accident at the defendant's store last March.

Miss Carney was employed in the store as clerk, and claims that in looking up the elevator shaft in response to a call from above, she was struck by the elevator, which was at the time descending, and injured about the head, her neck being jammed against a picket on the guard fence.

POLITICAL EVENTS

Talk Begins of the Aldermanic Election This Fall in Paducah.

It is Alleged That an Entirely New Board Will Have to Be Chosen by the People.

OTHER MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

It is about three months until the fall election, and considerable interest is now being aroused in certain quarters. It is claimed by those who profess to know that an election of a board of aldermen will have to be held the coming November, Mayor Yeiser's appointments being until the next election, which under the charter must be then.

In support of this claim, it is alleged that the intention in the beginning was to have a portion of the members of the municipal legislative bodies chosen by the voters every year, as evidenced by the constitutional provision that certain officers cannot be elected in the same year a congressman is chosen, "except members of municipal legislative bodies," who can be chosen either in the odd or the even years, or a part in one and part in another.

The second class charter says: "The members of the general council, councilmen and aldermen, elected in 1895 shall hold their offices, one half of them for one year, and one half of them for two years, as shall be determined by lot at their first meeting after election; and EVERY YEAR THEREAFTER shall be elected for two years, as the term of the incumbent shall expire; and said lot shall be so arranged that not less than one member of each board of councilmen shall be elected from each ward in the city each year."

This is construed to mean that half of the board of aldermen shall be elected each year after the election of the first board, the first board elected by the people after a city has entered the second class to draw lots, just as when the new constitution became effective and the cities of the second class held their first election. The present board of aldermen, it is claimed, was appointed by Mayor Yeiser until the next election, at which such officers can be chosen, which is in November. Eight aldermen will then be elected by the people, and draw lots, four to serve one year and four to serve two years. After that, which is a start similar to the one of all cities of the second class when they begin under the new constitution, all aldermen will be elected to serve two years, but four will be elected every year, and it is probable that an attempt will be made to keep the present board in office until the November election next year.

Next year a mayor, city jailer, city clerk, city engineer, city treasurer, city assessor and city solicitor will have to be elected. Judge Sanders of the police court will hold his office for four years. His is the only elective office under the new charter not affected by the change into the second class.

The reason of this is that the charter specifies that the above named officers shall be elected in 1895, and every four years thereafter, or in 1899 and 1903. As we are operating under the second class charter, it is contended that we shall have to hold our elections in the year it specifies. Judge Sanders is an exception, because the election of police judges is separate and apart, and the second class charter says shall take place in 1897, and

THE SCHOOL BOARD

Annual Reports Were Submitted Last Night.

The Regular Assignments of Teachers Made—Changes in Course of Study.

TRANSACT ROUTINE BUSINESS

The Board of Education held its regular meeting last night, the first since June. Several members were absent.

Superintendent Hatfield, in his annual report, said that although only one-half of the school population entered school last year 81.3 of the white pupils and 72.3 of the colored ones were held throughout the term. He said that although there were 6,000 children here of school age, only 3,100 attended. The small proportion he attributes to indifference or poverty. He reported that he has secured the services of Miss Elizabeth Walsh of Louisville to come here and drill the local teachers for one week prior to resumption of the schools next month. Miss Walsh has had many years' experience as supervisor of 300 teachers in Louisville. She was formerly editor of the children's page for the Courier-Journal, and is now taking a summer course in Harvard college. He suggested that the printing committees have printed in combined book form reports of the secretary, treasurer and superintendent and place a copy of the pamphlet in each local home.

Miscellaneous bills and the pay roll and orders on the treasurer for $2,587.80 for work on the schools were allowed.

The treasurer's report showed: $1,485.72 on hand June 24th; received since then, $10,790.67; paid out, $2,247.82; leaving balance on hand of $8,551.85.

Chairman Weille, of the building committee, reported that the repair and improvement work on the various buildings is progressing, and in regard to the indemnity bonds of Messrs. Coulson and Schiffman, the plumbers, that the companies would not go on their bonds on account of the stipulation that $100 a day will have to be paid for every day over the date the work has to be completed. Mr. Coulson offered a mortgage instead, which was accepted, and Mr. Schiffman was relieved of the $100 part of the contract and allowed to make a contract with the agreement that $25 a day is to be held back for every day it is not finished after the time allotted.

The committee on course of study, through Chairman Bockmon, recommended the following changes in the books used in the schools: First and second grades the Baldwin reader be used the first portion of the term, and McGuffey's the last; that it be left optional with the pupil as to whether he shall get the primary or high school dictionary in the 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8 grades; that only one may be required of pupils in the 4, 5, 6 and 7 grades instead of two as heretofore; that in the ninth grade the "Bellum Helveticum," which costs $1 be substituted for the "Easy Method Beginners" that costs $1.20; that the eleventh grade be given the option of taking the commercial course throughout the year instead of Pedagogy. The report was adopted.

Twenty-five dollars left over from commencement was ordered turned over to the library fund.

The assignment of teachers was made as follows:

Mrs. Mary Dodson Anderson sent thanks for the beautiful present received from the board at her marriage. The board then adjourned.

PHYSICIAN AND DRUGGISTS.

Ford and Sturgeon, a prominent drug firm at Rocky Hill Station, Ky., write: "We were requested by Dr. G. B. Snigley to send for Herbine for the benefit of our customers. We ordered three dozen in December, and we are glad to say Herbine has given such great satisfaction that we have duplicated this order three times, and today we gave your salesman another order. We beg to say Dr. G. B. Snigley takes pleasure in recommending Herbine." 50c bottle at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

AFFRAY IN TENNESSEE.

Fulton, Ky., August 6.—C. B. Freeman, of Newbern, Tenn., has just arrived in this city en route to Limbs, Tenn., where he hears that a man named J. A. Brooks has killed Mr. Freeman's son, Clinton, by striking him over the head with a club. The Freemans are prominent people.

FRIENDLY TRIAL

Ed Deusch Arrested for Murder But Not Locked up.

Family of the Man He Killed Simply Want the Courts to Settle It.

Ed Deusch, who was exonerated by the coroner's jury for killing Will Wood, at "Galtown" near Metropolis, several weeks ago, and was never arrested, has now been warranted on complaint of the dead man's mother, and the preliminary hearing set for Friday before Judge Tucker at Metropolis.

The two young men had quarreled, it seems, over a remark made by one of them in the presence of a young lady, and a subsequent altercation resulted in the shooting. It seems the victim's mother was not satisfied with the coroner's verdict, and the case is to be decided in the courts. Deusch was not required to give bond, there seeming to be an agreement that a settlement be made in the courts and end it.

METROPOLIS CARNIVAL

A FORMAL PROPOSITION MADE TO BOSTOCK CO.

The city council at Metropolis has made a formal proposition to the Bostock-Ferari Carnival Co., which furnished the attractions for the Elks carnival here in May, to show there next month. It simply, however, offers the company the streets free, all other expenses, such as for lights, extra policing, water, and street cleaning, to be paid by the company. It is probable that the company will not accept, as it would not even make such concessions in a city the size of Paducah. The company will be in Cairo the week preceding the one in which it desires to visit Metropolis.

MUST OBEY

MATRON OF THE CITY HOSPITAL WILL FOLLOW INSTRUCTIONS.

City Physician Coyle has adopted a new plan that will be enforced at the city hospital. He will have tablets hung at the bedside of each patient, and on this will write instructions for the matron to follow out in administering medicine and in dieting the patient. Breaches of discipline and a failure to comply with the orders will be recorded by the physician on the tablets. The matron has been instructed by the mayor to obey all instructions of the city physician.

LAST SUIT

NO OTHER CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS NOW TO BE TRIED.

The last of the thirty or forty condemnation suits brought by the Illinois Central to secure right of way for its Cairo extension has been settled. The Baumer suit was last evening compromised, the railroad company paying $1,800. The commissioners allowed $1,860 for the company's passing over a corner of the property. The trial was to have taken place tomorrow.

The company now has complete right of way in the county, and can proceed with the work.

CURED PARALYSIS.

W. S. Bailey, P. O. True, Texas, writes: "My wife had been suffering five years with paralysis in her arm, when I was persuaded to use Ballard's Snow Liniment, which cured her all right. I have also used it for old sores, frost bites, and skin eruptions. It does the work." 25c 50 and $1 bottle at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

Where the Trouble Was.

Senator Hoar received word the other day that a friend who had been supposed to have appendicitis was suffering not from the ailment, but from acute indigestion. "That is good news," said the senator. "I rejoice that the trouble lies in the table of contents rather than in the appendix."

ECZEMA

is due to the retention in the system of Uric Acid or other inflammatory poisons which find their way into the blood, and are forced by the circulation through the glands and pores of the skin, causing it to burn like fire, and the incessant itching allows no rest night or day. Eczema appears in a great many different forms, beginning frequently as a mere redness of the skin, followed by little blisters or pimples, from which a clear or straw colored matter oozes, forming into sores, scales or scabs; this is weeping Eczema, commonly called Salt Rheum. These acid poisons sometimes dry up the natural oils and the skin becomes hard and dry, often cracking and bleeding and causing intense pain and fearful itching. This form of Eczema is known as Tetter, and oftenest attacks the hands and feet. Unsightly eruptions in the shape of pimples and blackheads break out upon the face, neck and shoulders as a result of polluted blood, and this humiliating disease is called Acne. Local remedies afford but scant relief. The blood and system being saturated with the poison, the disease cannot be reached with washes, salves, powders or other local applications. S. S. S. restores the deteriorated blood to its normal condition, stimulates the sluggish organs, and all the waste matter is eliminated through the proper channels. S. S. S. makes the blood rich and strong, and under its tonic and invigorating effects the general health improves, and the skin becomes soft and smooth again.

The five rises of July made that month for 1902 the greatest of any July in the history of shipments from Pittsburg. These official figures were given from Davis Island of the shipments: 1,081,690 tons of coal, 29,100 tons of iron products in barges and 5,857 tons in packets; 204 towboats passed up and 245 passed down the Ohio. Passenger traffic records were also broken, more than 7,000 persons traveling.

What is stated to be the oldest ship in the world has recently been sold at Teneriffe, Canary Islands, to be broken up. This is the Italian ship Anita, registered at the port of Genoa. The Anita, which resembled Christopher Columbus' ship, the Santa Maria, was built in Genoa in 1448, and effected her last voyage at the end of March, 1902, from Naples to Teneriffe, six or seven weeks ago. The Anita was of tremendously stout build, and had weathered countless storms and tornadoes in all parts of the world, but it was also the slowest ship, taking 205 days on one voyage.

AN ICE FACTORY

METROPOLIS PAPERS CLAIM PADUCAH WANTS TO BUILD ONE.

The Metropolis papers state that the owners of the Paducah Ice company have been down there investigating the advisability of establishing a plant there for furnishing ice to Metropolis and neighboring cities.

The local company now furnishes much of Metropolis' ice, but with a plant there would save heavy expense and be able to place more on the market for surrounding cities, save delay and the trouble of shipping.

Officers of the company, when asked about the report today, said they knew nothing of it, and had no intention of building at Metropolis.

WHITE STEVEDORES.

FEW NEGROES AT WORK ON THE BIG PACKETS NOW.

The rouster problem is being solved by some of the big steamboat owners on the Ohio river by the substitution of white men for negroes. The Avalon and Sunshine now have white roustes almost exclusively, something unnoticed on a steamboat since the civil war.

Very few negroes will work on the big boats during hot weather, partly because they can live on practically nothing in "watermill" time, and partly because of the hot weather and the heavy shipments of wheat, which make work double. The wages of roustes now amounts to $60 a month on many boats.

MR. W. H. ROBERTS CALLED TO OGDEN'S LANDING YESTERDAY.

Mr. W. H. Roberts, of Boldry and Roberts, was called to Ogden's Landing last evening by a long distance telephone message that his father, Mr. N. F. Roberts, had dropped dead there from heart disease. The deceased was about 70 years old, and formerly lived in Graves county. He leaves a widow and one child.

A WORM KILLER.

J. A. J. Montgomery, Puxico, Wayne county, Mo., writes: "I have little twin girls who have been bothered with worms all their lives. I tried everything to relieve them which failed until I used White's Cream Vermifuge; the first two doses brought four worms from one of them, the next two doses, twelve, one of them measuring twelve inches; the other child was relieved of four worms. It is a most excellent medicine." White's Cream Vermifuge is good for children. It not only destroys worms, it helps the child to perfect growth, wards off sickness. 25c at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

Mr. Guy Robinson of the Cochran shoe store has resigned his position with that firm to accept one with the Mound City Boot and Shoe Co., of St. Louis, as traveling salesman. He will leave about the 10th of September to go into his new duties. He has been with the Cochran store for about five years, and during his residence here has made many friends who will regret to see him leave the city, but who will be pleased to learn that he has been fortunate in securing such a good place.

HOSE DEALS.

The city of Paducah, through the fire committee of the general council, made a contract with a New York company about three months ago for 2500 feet of rubber hose, at a cost of $2,625. The city was badly in need of hose at that time, and the fact that almost that much had always been paid for hose of that quality, and the hose was guaranteed for five years to stand a pressure of four hundred pounds, induced the committee to believe that it was getting a good bargain. Mayor Yeiser heard that the same hose company had offered hose, presumed to be the same hose, to Cairo at 82 cents, and straightway began an investigation. He went on the presumption that no company charges more for anything than it is worth, something that every good business man knows is not the case.

After a public inquiry, the committee of the council was wheedled or intimidated into countermanding the order, which left the city without hose, and totally at sea. If the city had proceeded as it started out, it would weeks ago have had what hose it needed, and hose guaranteed to last five years, at a total cost to the taxpayers of $2,625.

As a result of the "business methods" of the men the people have placed in office, the city after three months' delay now has 1,000 feet of hose that cost 81 cents a foot, or $810, guaranteed for four years to stand a 100-pound pressure; would have had had it been delivered 1,000 feet of the same company's hose that had previously been rejected, at 82 cents a foot, guaranteed for three years to stand a pressure of 100 pounds, a total cost of $820, and 4,000 feet of cotton hose, at 49 cents a foot, a total of $1,960, making the total outlay cost the taxpayers $3,590, instead of $2,625, and giving them but 1,500 feet more hose, as only half of the cotton hose can be used after it once gets wet, while the other half is drying.

The fact that the 1,000 feet of Anchor brand hose at 82 cents a foot was not bought is no fault of the city, but is due to the fact that the company would not furnish it on the conditions stipulated.

This is an example of the wonderful business methods of the present administration, an administration whose members, we are told, by the official printer, are "good business men."

Wonder if the proud and progressive gentlemen who compose Paducah's legislative bodies ever stop to think what the impression must be on the outside world to see that Paducah, a city of over 20,000 inhabitants, whose business increases every week, and whose manufactories are the proud boast of the entire state, has to take a vote on whether or not the cows shall be kept off the streets? Do strangers think we are a city of farmers, who value the welfare of the cow contingent more than we do the beauty, health and convenience of the people? How must other cities regard us, when in many states cows are not even allowed to run at large in the country? Is there anything in such an attitude to act as an inducement to the men of other places, who are not used to living in a barn yard, to come here and invest their money and bring their families? Are we ever to get a body of public lawmakers who can see farther than their own back doors?
And how do they suppose it looks to people from up to date cities to come here and learn that Paducah has had sanitary sewerage for four or five years, and no one is compelled to use it? That a man can turn the filth from his home either into the sewers or the gutter, whichever he prefers?
And it is a serious question if the same spirit that inspires some of our worthy citizens to want the cow to ornament the streets, does not prompt them also to turn the sewage into the gutters, the yards, or the alleys and return to primitive conditions. The old time religion may be good enough, but let's not extend the principle to sanitation and municipal government.

Some of these days the general council is going to be unpleasantly reminded of the illegality of many of its acts, by some sort of a lawsuit. Two or three officers are now holding office illegally, and now the council is going to create the position of assistant city clerk and spend illegally $300 more of the money raised by a $1.85 tax rate. If the city clerk does not feel that he can perform the work for the salary, let him resign, and see how many others are willing to take the job. It would save the city money and give him plenty of time to repair those sidewalks where they are bulging up and cracking all over Broadway.

It seems that the overseer of the chaingang is required to work on Sunday and the driver of the patrol wagon is not. This is not right and the council should rectify it. The overseer, by being required to drive the patrol wagon several Sundays ago after a hard week's work, when he should have been allowed to go home and rest up, was thrown out and hurt, and it cost the taxpayers extra for all the time he lost.

Since the Breathitt county imbroglio became such a source of general interest, the outside world has been convinced that it is not politics, after all, that has made some people of Kentucky so mean, unless it is Democratic politics. The mountaineers will have to look to their laurels if something isn't done to subdue the desperadoes up and around Jackson, Ky.

Nothing has yet been heard from those who were going to take the proper steps to compel the brick street contractor to fix up the streets and sidewalks as he contracted to do. If the city attorney doesn't know what to do, somebody ought to tell him. If he does, he ought to do it. The city does not seem to be in any hurry, but the public is.

Some of our slow coach contemporaries still contend that the city didn't order any hose from the National India Rubber company. They don't know what's going on right under their noses.

The Democrats are more discouraged than ever. The silver issue is dead, and Arizona and Nevada will be in the Republican column next fall.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES

A MEETING OF THE COMMIT-TEE TO BE HELD HERE
AUGUST 12.

A meeting of the Republican executive committee has been called for August 12 in Paducah to devise the means of selecting candidates for congress and the court of appeals in the First district. It is expected that there will be a large attendance of politicians from the district. The official call is as follows:

Marion, Ky., Aug. 5th, 1903.

Dear Sir:

You are hereby notified that the appellate court and congressional committees of the first district will meet in Paducah, Thursday morning, August 12, 1903, for the purpose of arranging conventions to nominate candidates for the judge of the court of appeals and for congress to be voted for at the November election, 1902.

If no more than one announcement is made for each position by that time the committee shall make nominations for each position. Respectfully, WM. J. DEBOE.

UNIQUE ATTACHMENT

DAIRYMAN CLAIMS HE SHOULD HAVE MADE THIS SALE.

A remarkable attachment suit was yesterday afternoon filed in Justice Young's court by M. B. Peary, the dairyman, against the Shipman-Bradt Co., of Desalb, Ill.

Peary has been the agent for that company here, the company dealing in the manufacture and sale of milk wagons, and Mr. W. Y. Griffith the dairyman, recently purchased a wagon from that company, directly from the factory. Mr. Peary being the agent wanted the wagon sold through him and when it arrived filed an attachment suit against the company, attaching the wagon. The attachment was released this morning, Mr. Griffith giving bond. Peary seeks to receive through the courts the commission he would have gotten had he sold the wagon.

MARRIAGES THIS MORNING

MISS ANNIE STREET AND MR.
JOHN R. WALKER UNITED AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Miss Annie Street and Mr. John R. Walker, popular young people of the South Side, were married at 10:45 o'clock this morning at the First Christian church, Rev. W. H. Pinkerton officiating. There was quite a crowd present, Miss Elizabeth Street acting as maid of honor and Mr. Will Street as the best man. The couple left at noon for a trip east, and when they return will reside at Mr. Quarles, on South Fourth street. The bride is daughter of Mrs. Annie Street and the groom an attache of George O. Hart's.

Mr. August Eckhard, an attache of the Armour plant here and Miss Emma Nolan, also of the city, were united in marriage at 6:30 o'clock this morning at the St. Francis De Sales church, Rev. Father Jansen officiating. Only a few friends attended.

Miss Ruth Smith, of Mayfield, will arrive in the city shortly to visit friends.

OUT ON BOND

Henry Petter Executes $1000 Bail
and is Released.

Frank Eich is Still Alive, and no
Worse Than Yesterday.

Henry Petter, the young man charged with maliciously shooting Frank Eich, on the South side Monday, was released at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon on bond, the amount being $1,000.

It is claimed by Petter's friends
that he will be cleared of the charge, as it was done in self defense. It was at first stated that there was only one man in the place at the time the shooting was done, and that was Mr.
Kenney Murray, the bartender, and also one negro, Chink Dollar, who was fast asleep and did not know of the fight until he heard the pistol shot, which awakened him. It is now claimed that there were others.

Eich is still resting easy, but today had some fever. He may recover, but as yet little hope is entertained.

THE HACK MUDDLE.

Supt. Dailey Intimates That the Railroad Will Stand off.

Council Has Referred the Question to His Company for Settlement.

Superintendent J. C. Dailey, of the Louisville division of the Illinois Central, was in the city today, and was asked by a reporter about the hack controversy. He said that he failed to see where the matter could be adjusted by the railroad company, which has simply leased some of its ground at the passenger depot to the Palmer Transfer Company. The latter, he said, would have to protect its rights under the lease.

This would indicate that the Illinois Central will not comply with the council's request to settle it. As is doubtless remembered, the railroad company some time ago set aside a part of the ground adjacent to the platform for the exclusive use of the Palmer Company, and the other hack-men attempted to occupy the reservation notwithstanding, with the result that one or two cases got into the police court, and the question was finally referred to Circuit Judge Husbands, who decided that he didn't have anything to do with it, and the question would have to be settled by due process of law in a court of equity. Since then nothing had been done until the council at its last meeting appointed the railroad, telegraph and telephone committee to confer with Superintendent Dailey in behalf of the other hackmen.

STORM IN MAYFIELD

CHIMNEYS BLOWN OFF THE COURT HOUSE THERE LAST NIGHT.

There was quite a severe storm at Mayfield last night, but the damage done was confined to the demolition of a few chimneys, trees, and fences.
There was also considerable hail.

The fact that a chimney or two blew off the court house was all the foundation there was for the report out today that the court house there was blown down.

BARN BURNED

MRS. THOMPSON'S BARN STRUCK
BY LIGHTNING LAST NIGHT.

Last night during the wind and rain storm lightning struck the stable of Mrs. Mary J. Thompson, of the Blandville road, and the barn and entire contents were destroyed by fire.

The barn contained much hay and a few farming implements and one mule, all of which were destroyed.
The mule could not be gotten out and was left in the barn to roast alive.

British Increase in Height.

No nation is increasing in height and weight so rapidly as the English, says a British statistician. The proof of this is shown in statistics recently collected of the height of 10,000 boys and men. At the age of 17 these averaged 5 feet 8 inches; at the age of 22, 5 feet 9 inches. In fifty years the average has gone up for the whole nation from 5 feet 7½ inches to 5 feet 8½ inches.

time ago and July 24 the centenary of

SUES FOR DIVORCE

MRS. MOLLIE SEAY SUES HER HUSBAND, WHO IS IN JAIL HERE.

This afternoon Attorneys Bloomfield and Crice filed a suit for Mrs. Mollie M. Seay against T. E. Seay, the man who is now in jail for arson, for an absolute divorce.

She gives drunkenness, the wasting of his estate and cruel and inhuman treatment the grounds for the action. It will be remembered that the defendant burned his home last Saturday and then tried to shoot his wife and was thwarted by his son, who fired a load of shot into his arm.

Seay is better at the jail here, and his trial, set for yesterday, has been continued until next Tuesday.

SWEET BREATH.

WHEN COFFEE IS LET OFF.

A test was made to find if just the leaving off of coffee alone would produce an equal condition of health as when coffee is left off and Postum Food Coffee used in its place.

A man from Clinton, Wis., made the experiment. He says:

"About a year ago I left off drinking coffee and tea and began to use Postum. For several years previous my system had been in wretched condition. I always had a thickly furrowed, bilious tongue and foul breath, often accompanied with severe headaches. I was troubled all the time with chronic constipation, so that I was morose in disposition and almost discouraged.

At the end of the first week after making the change from coffee to Postum I witnessed a marvelous change in myself. My once coated tongue cleared off, my appetite increased, breath became sweet and the headaches ceased entirely. One I thing wish to state emphatically, you have in Postum a virgin remedy for constipation, for I certainly had about the worst case ever known among mortals and I am completely cured of it. I feel in every way like a new person.

During the last summer I concluded that I would experiment to see if the Postum kept me in good shape or whether I had gotten well from just leaving off coffee. So I quit Postum for quite a time and drank cocoa and water. I found out before two weeks were past that something was wrong and I began to get coveive as of old. It was evident the liver was not working properly, so I became convinced it was not the avoidance of coffee alone that cured me, but the great value came from the regular use of Postum."

YVETTE

By S. RHETT ROMAN.

YOU SEE, one grows tired of life in the same grooves. Tons of perdris gets to be monotonous," explained Ned Holcomb, while idly throwing small pieces of rock into the channel, where it ran around Rock point, and watching the play of sunshine and shadow over the water, as light clouds floated across the sky, driven slowly along by a south breeze, this calm April afternoon.

"Your queer, charming habitation, right out in the middle of the ocean, is so inaccessible and remote, it seems like a different world, from ordinary humdrum city life. What an ideal retreat, and how you must enjoy getting beyond people's reach, and away from sin and wickedness, and all uncharitableness," continued Holcomb, leaning back against the abutment of the lighthouse, and tilting his hat over his eyes to shade them, gilding the vast expanse of the ocean, shining white on the rails of the fishing fleet, skimming homeward, and outlining the rigging and smokestacks of an ocean liner steaming in across the bar.

Yvette smiled a little wistfully, for the solitude of their storm-beaten eyrie, so alluring to Ned, as a relief from the whiz of electric cars, the jangling noises of the city and perpetual contact with humanity was sometimes oppressive to one so endowed with life and spirits as were the eternal wash and moan of the sea on the jagged rocks of the reef.

Then Yvette laughed, and, turning, looked with a frank gayety at Ned Holcomb.

"How long do you think you could live here, away from your friends and business; with just the sea to sing to you, and only the stars at night to tell you tales? What would you do with yourself all day, and in the evening?"

"I never said I'd like to live here without—any—companionship," Ned said, returning the frank look of Yvette's deep gray eyes, with one of open admiration, mingled with a friendliness Yvette had grown quite accustomed to by this time.

For since the visit of the Sea Gull, three months ago, to Rock Point lighthouse, Ned Holcomb had developed a great love of the sea, apparently, and had fallen into the habit of sailing far into the harbor, to do deep sea fishing on the outer rocks. Going or returning, he would stop at the lighthouse, to bring, as he had promised, papers and periodicals to Ben Ker, and books, Hylers and flowers, to Yvette, whose glad pleasure, so unrestrainedly expressed, produced a curious impression on their giver.

"There's a fascination about the sea," Yvette said, slowly, turning her gaze towards the far distant horizon, and ignoring her companion's last remark. "In the summer, you can't think how lovely the sea is out here. How pleasantly it whispers, and how sweetly the little waves drope one to sleep! I've sometimes thought it dreary, but how I will miss the dear old lighthouse! the never-ceasing sound of the waves, and the call of the sea gulls, and the salt spray in the air. How I love it all!"

"What do you mean?" queried Ned Holcomb, a curious pang running through him. "You are not thinking of going away?"

Yvette nodded slowly. Ned Holcomb turned quickly, then paused in what he was going to say, for what business was it of his why Yvette and the old man, her father, should give up their care of the lighthouse and go—perhaps back to the little village on the Brittany coast, from which he had drifted years ago?

Why should he care if this beautiful girl went away from this lonely dwelling place, which she had made so bright and attractive; those rooms within the stone tower she had adorned and beautified until they seemed to Ned Holcomb to be an ideal spot on the earth's surface? Why in God's name should he care?

The lighthouse would be turned over to some rough seaman, and the beacon would shine just as well, as when Ben Ker tended it with Yvette's help.

"He is much stronger and better since the warm spring days have come, but the doctor says he must not stay at the lighthouse another winter. Then—in June—I will go to live in the village on the island, but my darling old dad must come too. I would die if I were separated from him."

Again there was a pause, which Ned Holcomb filled up mentally by picturing what these jutting rocks would be without Yvette's presence.

"Why must you go to live on the island—in June?" Ned queried, without excusing the inquisitiveness of the inquiry.

"I am to be married in June," Yvette answered in a quiet, troubled voice.

"To whom?" Holcomb asked.

roughly.

"A good man—Peter Stevenson," Yvette answered, turning to look out over the water, where the last golden sun rays were lingering before twilight would soften the crimsons and vivid purples of the sky to pale tints and fading grays.

"And—you care for him, of course? We have grown to be such good friends, have we not? I know you will not mind telling me," Ned Holcomb said, in a friendly voice, which had a queer ring in it. "You won't mind, you are so honest and straightforward."

"I've known him all my life," Yvette said, slowly. "As a little girl and when I was in the convent. In the holidays we used to play together. He always was kind and nice, and Dad loves him dearly. Dad was so grieved when he was sick, thinking about me, that I promised him I would marry Peter in June. Just two weeks off now!"

"You did not answer me, Yvette," Ned half whispered, taking Yvette's hands and holding them tight. "Tell me."

Yvette raised her eyes steadily and met Holcomb's look and read it, as no woman ever fails to do.

"I do not now, but I will in time. He is good and loves me dearly. Stop! I know what you would say. Do you think I would let you—marry a lighthouse keeper's daughter? You, with so much to live for? Oh, oh, no! But it was pleasant. You have made these past months so bright. When I go I will remember how you used to come to our lighthouse to cheer us, and how pleasant the evenings were. Good-by."

Standing before her, Ned Holcomb lost his head, and poured out the pent-up words, which, by Yvette's beauty and constant companionship during the past months, had been stored up, waiting for just such an occasion for utterance.

What did he care for the world's opinion? Ned asked. Was not happiness the sole and rightful aim of life? Has not each one the right to seek it, and grasp it, wherever and whenever the chance occurs? Is it not for more honest to break faith with one, when one's whole soul and thoughts are wrapped up in another. Yvette spoke like a child! Like the dear, honest, unsophisticated little girl she was. It was absurd, hideous, to think for an instant of throwing herself away on a common shipwright. She must marry him, and they would go away, anywhere, and Ben Ker would join them. Who in all the world was as beautiful and noble and fearless as Yvette? His Yvette.

So Ned Holcomb urged in wildest entreaty, and Yvette listened, keenest anguish tugging at her heart, her face pale, but a resolute look on her face, strange for one so young.

"You think so now—but it's all a mistake, dear," she answered, slowly, a great tenderness welling up in her eyes.

"Your life and mine lie far, far apart. You must go your way, and I must go mine, and we will both forget—all but the pleasant hours we spent in the old lighthouse, and on these rocks, listening to the voices of the sea. Good-by."

"Do you mean it? It must be for all time, remember, Yvette."

"For all time!" she answered, steadily.

Ned Holcomb looked long at the face before him, and, stooping, kissed the rich bronze hair the sea breezes loved to toy with.

And when, the wind catching the sail, his boat ran swiftly down the channel.

"Where is your friend? Why did he not stay to supper? Has he gone?" queried Ben Ker, lightly stroking Yvette's ruffled hair as she nestled against him and leaned against his shoulder.

"He's gone, dad. Gone away. He'll not come back."

"Gone away for good? Well, well! You'll miss his visits, my pet, and his books. But we'll soon leave the old lighthouse. We'll soon leave it. I'll miss the roar of the waters and the whistle of the wind at night and the lighting of the beacon."

"But life ashore will be better for my birdie. She will not miss a stranger's visits then. Peter will be here to-morrow and we'll settle on the date in June, and soon we'll move out and let Harrison take my place. You'll have Peter to take care of you, and your old dad, Ben Ker, has provided well for his little girl. You will be as happy as the day is long."

"Yes, dad, as happy as the day is long," whispered Yvette, clinging to the old man.

"Can anybody tell me what in the world is the matter with Ned Holcomb? Perhaps there's insanity in the family. Does anyone know anything about it?" queried Mrs. Carson to those around, while sipping.

"Can't imagine, unless he's in love. It must be with that wonderful siren of the sea we came across last spring. You remember? She's a perfect Lorelle—a beauty! Ned Holcomb, to my mind, has never been the same since, and his rushing off to spend the summer rambling about, all by himself, in the Alps, when Kitty had her trousseau ready, was the stupidest thing I ever heard of. Kitty I would have let him go—for good. But Kit's so dead in love with him!"

"Don't wonder. We all are. Ned Holcomb's a dear."

"Sh-s-a-s-sh! Here's Kitty!" warned some one.

There was an air of triumph about Kitty as she came in.

"Where is Ned Holcomb? Why, in town. No, I won't go to the Whittley's next month. I'll probably be out of town."

"A bridal tour?"

Kitty nodded assent, and was pounced on by all the women present.

"Hello, old fellow. Let me congratulate you. Miss Kitty's a charming girl, and deuced clever," an acquaintance said to Ned Holcomb at the club that night.

Ned Holcomb shook hands, and lapsed back into his moody gazing through the window.

He saw some jutting rocks, and a weatherbeaten lighthouse; breakers curling up and breaking against them, and the tall, lithe form of Yvette, half hidden in the spray. He saw a beautiful face, young and strong and tender, fading out if sight.

Holcomb turned and went out, to call on Kitty Leversham, his fiancée.—N. O. Times-Democrat.

THE COURIER OF THE CZAR

By Jules Verne

In a few minutes the boatmen were killed and the ferryboat was left to drift away while the Tartars continued to descend the Irish.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE blow which had struck Michael Strogoff was not mortal. By swimming in a manner by which he had effectually concealed himself he had reached the right bank, where he fell exhausted among the bushes.

When he recovered his senses, he found himself in the cabin of a mujik, who had picked him up and cared for him and to whom he owed his life. For how long a time had he been the guest of this brave Siberian? He could not guess, but when he opened his eyes he saw the handsome bearded face bending over him and regarding him with pitying eyes. He was about to ask where he was when the mujik, anticipating him, said:

"Do not speak, little father, do not speak. Thou art still too weak. I will tell thee where thou art and everything that has passed since I brought thee to my cabin."

And the mujik related to Michael Strogoff the different incidents of the struggle which he had witnessed—the attack upon the ferry by the Tartar boats, the pillage of the tarantass and the massacre of the boatmen.

But Michael Strogoff listened no longer, and, slipping his hand under his garment, he felt the imperial letter still secured in his breast.

He breathed a sigh of relief. But that was not all.

"A young girl accompanied me," said he.

"They have not killed her," replied the mujik, anticipating the anxiety which he read in the eyes of his guest. "They have carried her off in their boat and have continued the descent of the Irish. It is only one prisoner more to join so many others which they are taking to Tomsk."

Michael Strogoff was unable to reply. He pressed his hand upon his heart to restrain his beating.

But, notwithstanding these many trials, the sentiment of duty mastered his whole soul.

He remembered the errand which he had undertaken. Indeed never by day or night was his emperor's mission for even a moment absent from his mind. Not the presence of the greatest danger, the tortures of hunger and thirst, the weariness of excessive fatigue, nor even all combined could cause him to forget that a momentous matter was entrusted to his courage, his zeal, his fidelity and his endurance. Michael Strogoff was worthy of this trust.

"Where am I?" asked he.

"Upon the right bank of the Irish, only five versts from Omsk," replied the mujik.

"What would I have received which could have thus prostrated me? It was not a gunshot wound?"

"No; a lance thrust upon the head, now healing," replied the mujik. "After a few days' rest, little father, thou wilt be able to proceed. Thou didst fall into the river, but the Tartars neither touched nor searched thee, and thy purse is still in thy pocket."

Michael Strogoff gripped the mujik's hand. Then, recovering himself with a sudden effort, "Friend," said he, "how long have I been in thy hut?"

"Three days,"

"Three days lost!"

"Three days hast thou lain unconscious."

"Hast thou a horse to sell me?"

"Thou wishest to go?"

"At once."

"I have neither horse nor carriage, little father. Where the Tartar has passed there remains nothing!"

"Well, I will go on foot to Omsk to find a horse."

"A few more hours of rest and thou wilt be in a better condition to pursue thy journey."

"Not an hour!"

"Come, now," replied the mujik, recognizing the fact that it was useless to struggle against the will of his guest, "I will guide thee myself. Besides," he added, "the Russians are still in great force at Omsk, and thou couldst perhaps pass unperceived."

"Friend," replied Michael, "heaven reward thee for all thou hast done for me."

"Reward! Only fools expect reward on earth," replied the mujik.

Michael Strogoff went out of the hut. When he tried to walk, he was seized with such faintness that without the assistance of the mujik he would have fallen, but the fresh air quickly revived him. He then felt the wound in his head, the violence of which his fur cap had lessened. With the energy which he possessed he was not a man to succumb under such a trifle. Before his eyes lay a single goal—far distant Irkutsk. He must reach it! But he must pass through Omsk without stopping there.

"God protect my mother and Nadia!" he murmured. "I have no longer the right to think of them!"

Michael Strogoff and the mujik soon arrived in the mercantile quarter of the lower town, and, although under military occupation, they entered it without difficulty. The surrounding earth-work had been destroyed in many places, and there were the breaches through which the marauders who followed the armies of Feofar-Kahn had penetrated.

The mujik was conducting his guest straight to the posting house when in a narrow street Michael Strogoff, coming to a sudden stop, sprang behind a jutting wall.

"What is the matter?" quickly asked the mujik, much astonished at this sudden movement.

"Silence!" hastily replied Michael Strogoff, with his finger on his lips.

At this moment a detachment debouched from the principal square into the street which Michael Strogoff and his companion had been just following.

At the head of the detachment, composed of twenty horsemen, was an officer dressed in a very simple uniform. Although he glanced rapidly from one side to the other, he could not have seen Michael Strogoff owing to his precipitous retreat.

The detachment went at full trot into the narrow street. Neither the officer nor his escort concerned themselves about the inhabitants. Several unlucky ones had scarcely time to make way for their passage. There were, therefore, a few half stifled cries, to which the thrusts of the lance gave an instant reply, and the street was immediately cleared.

When the escort had disappeared, "Who is that officer?" asked Michael Strogoff, returning toward the mujik. And while putting the question his face was pale as that of a corpse.

"It is Ivan Ogareff," replied the Siberian, but in a deep voice which breathed hatred.

"He!" cried Michael Strogoff, from whom the word escaped with an accent of fury which he could not conquer.

He had just recognized in this officer the traveler who had struck him at the posting house of Ichim, and, although he had only caught a glimpse of him, it burst upon his mind at the same time that this traveler was the old Zingari whose words he had overheard in the market place of Nijni Novgorod.

The mujik and Michael resumed their way and arrived at the posting house. To leave Omsk by one of the breaches would not be difficult after nightfall. As for purchasing a carriage to replace the tarantass, that was impossible.

There was none to be let or sold. But what want had Michael Strogoff now for a carriage? Was he not alone, alas? A horse would suffice him, and, very fortunately, a horse could be had.

It was an animal of mettle, capable of enduring much fatigue, and Michael Strogoff, accomplished horseman as he was, could make good use of it.

The horse cost a high price, and a few moments later Michael was ready to start. It was then 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Michael Strogoff, compelled to wait till nightfall in order to pass the fortifications, but not desiring to show himself in the streets of Omsk, remained in the posting house and there partook of food.

There was a great crowd in the public room, it being the resort of numbers of the anxious inhabitants, who at this eventful period collected there to obtain news. They were talking of the expected arrival of a corps of Muscovite troops, not at Omsk, but at Tomsk, a corps intended to recapture that town from the Tartars of Feofar-Kahn.

Michael Strogoff lent an attentive ear to all that was said, but took no part in the conversation.

Suddenly a cry made him tremble, a cry which penetrated to the depths of his soul, and these two words, so to speak, rushed into his ear:

"My son!"

His mother, the old woman Marfa, was before him! Trembling, she smiled upon him. She stretched forth her arms to him. Michael Strogoff arose. He was about to throw himself—

The thought of duty, the serious danger for his mother and himself in this unfortunate meeting, suddenly stopped him, and such was his command over himself that not a muscle of his face moved.

There were twenty people in the public room. Among them were perhaps spies, and was it not known in the town that the son of Marfa Strogoff belonged to the corps of the couriers of the czar?

Michael Strogoff did not move.

"Michael!" cried his mother.

"Who are you, my good lady?" Michael Strogoff stammered, unable to speak in his usual firm tone.

"Who am I, thou askest? Dost thou no longer know thy mother?"

"You are mistaken," coldly replied Michael Strogoff. "A resemblance deceives you."

The old Marfa went up to him and, looking straight into his eyes, said:

"Thou art not the son of Peter and Marfa Strogoff?"

Spies at Constantinople.

Extraordinary activity has lately been displayed in Constantinople by spies in the government service, arrests and domiciliary visits being alarmingly frequent. Several members of the diplomatic corps have complained of the obnoxious attentions of which they have been the object on the part of spies.

THE HOSE MUDDLE

Everybody has heard more than enough of the hose deal, and all are familiar with the Hose Muddle generally, but only a few people perhaps have thoroughly realized the seriousness of the situation. The dilatory and boyish methods of our city officials suggests a state of "blissful ignorance" of their duty and the great responsibility resting upon them. It is truly a terrible state of affairs to contemplate! A city of over twenty-three thousand inhabitants for several months at a time without the necessary protection of hose. It is besides very humiliating to our people to have these bare facts echoed and re-echoed through every state in the union. What a sensational news item—"Paducah, a second-class city, the pride of the purchase, the metropolis of the Pennyroyal District, almost absolutely without hose." It is enough to suddenly check the onward march of our prosperity and stun for years the rapid growth of our progressive (?) city. But we must not despair. "There's a gleam through the gloom." We hear our hustling newsboys "chanting" this refrain:

"Rejoice! A glad some shout rings out on the air. Our city dads have bought at last some hose without a 'swear.' This is some relief. They swore all over one hose deal. It failed as it should. Well balanced people should never have to swear about hose. But the new hose won't settle the trouble. Our people won't be satisfied with cotton hose at 49c a foot. If woman's rights prevailed, a large number of our city officials would be calmly retired to the restful shades of Oblivion. Nothing but cotton hose! They may suit some, but many will protest. We respectfully suggest that every family buy hose for themselves, where they can close a satisfactory deal. With this end in view, and in order to co-operate with the people in this emergency we will open a Hose Sale on Monday, August the 4th, also a clean sweep sale on all summer fabrics and furnishing goods. This sale will continue one whole week.

NEW SECRETARY

Mr. Stewart Hanna, of Washington State to Come.

Y. M. C. A. Directors Met with State Secretary Rosevear Last Night.

State Secretary H. E. Rosevear, of the Y. M. C. A., arrived last evening from Louisville and last night met the association directors at the building at Sixth and Broadway. The most important matter before the board was the selection of a general secretary for Paducah to succeed Mr. W. G. Escott, who leaves September 1.

At the suggestion of Mr. Rosevear, Mr. Stewart D. Hanna, of Everett, Washington, was called to succeed Mr. Escott, and is expected at once. Mr. Hanna has done most of his association work in Washington and Oregon. He graduated in 1898 from the University of Oregon and was assistant secretary at Seattle for quite a while, then supervising secretary of the association work in Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, and for the past year and a half has been secretary of the Everett association. At present he is attending the summer school at Lake Geneva, Wis. Mr. Escott will remain long enough to familiarize the new man with his duties.

Mr. D. W. Godfrey, of Sterling, Ill., has been chosen to succeed Mr. A. Knox, of the Frankfort association. Mr. Knox, formerly secretary here, is to enter Vanderbilt university and study for the ministry.

HAD THREE CALVES.

MR. LOUIS MOSS COMES FORWARD WITH AN ENTERPRISING COW.

Mr. Louis Moss, of Mechanicsburg, has a cow that gave birth to three calves a few days ago, two of them dying. She has broken the Mechanicsburg record, and seems to be a remarkable cow. When he bought her less than a year ago she had a young calf which she kicked almost to death and hooked over the fence. Mr. Moss is now confident it was some other cow's calf, particularly as it had to be sold to prevent her killing it.

NATIONAL INDIA RUBBER CO. DECLINES PADUCAH'S ORDER.

The National India Rubber company of New York, by telegraph yesterday afternoon declined to fill Paducah's order for 1,000 feet of Anchor Brand hose at 82 cents a foot, guaranteed to stand the fire pressure for three years. The hose was ordered by the fire committee Monday through the company's local agents, Geo. O. Hart and Son, and would have been here last evening or today if the company had agreed to the terms.

The telegram received yesterday afternoon stated that the company would not furnish its hose at 82 cents and guarantee the fire pressure, except on delivery, and the city, having already received 1,000 feet of emergency hose, notified the company that it didn't want the hose on those conditions.

The statement that the city didn't order the hose is untrue. Chairman Hummel, of the fire committee, said today that the hose was ordered, and if it had been shipped in accordance with the city's instructions, would have been accepted.
